

Wouldn't it be nice if the next time you had to plan an important date, outing or event, you could simply make a quick phone call or send an email, then sit back and relax, knowing everything would be taken care of?

Now you can.

Westbrook Strategies, a consulting firm in New York City, which offers a unique brand of customized, one-on-one coaching services for individuals looking to improve how they present themselves in important social situations, now offers its exclusive Date Planner service.

Whether you have to entertain clients for an evening, your girlfriend's parents are in town, your 16-year old niece is visiting for the weekend, it's your husband's birthday, or you're preparing for a first date – whatever the occasion...

Westbrook Strategies' Date Planner will handle everything, including:

- Picking, and making reservations at, the perfect restaurant, bar, or lounge
- Suggesting, and ordering tickets, for shows and concerts
- Arranging transportation
- Sending reminders leading up to the day of the event
- Creating and emailing an itinerary including important numbers, addresses and directions -- even back-up locations and a 24-hr emergency consultant number in case there's a snafu
- Making you look really, really impressive and socially savvy (Go ahead and take all the credit; we don't mind)

The best part: The service is only $25.
